IN JUSTICE TO CATS.

If cats were citizens and entitled to equal protection of the laws they could successfully maintain actions for slander and libel against many members of the human race. Nothing is more common than to hear self-satisfied human beings declare that cats have no sense, no intelligence, no affection, no gratitude, no anything worthy of praise. To be sure these same individuals are not unlikely to be heard making the same remarks concerning most of their fellow-creatures, but that is not to our present purpose, which is only to show that this opinion concerning cats only results from lack of observation and dense ignorance on the part of the holders of it.

The cat is a reticent being and unlike the dog does not deign to exhibit all he knows for the useless gratification and amusement of unappreciative human beings. But let him be placed in circumstances calling for a high grade of intelligence, or let him come in contact with some one who he thinks can appreciate his good qualities, and he will exhibit more wit and affection than a large number of his detractors.

Two of his characteristics are well worthy of study on the part of most members of the superior race—his disposition to attend strictly to his own business and his capacity to take care of himself under almost all circumstances, without outside assistance. This renders him an exceedingly comfortable fellow-resident. Then, too, he is a most self-respecting member of a community, seldom inflicting his company where it is not wanted and departing from the door of the uncongenial host without loss of dignity on his own part and exciting no feelings of compassion or anxiety as to his present or future welfare on the part of others.

If any of our readers care to test the ingenuity of any particular cat, let them attempt to deprive him of something necessary to his comfort and upon which he thinks he has a legitimate claim—as for example, spring chickens or fresh fish, and he will discover him possessed of intellectual resources which would not discredit the most experienced bank-burglar. Instances and illustrations might be multiplied, but time and hot weather forbid. We add two instances of feline intelligence, the one vouched for by a well-known citizen of Bloomfield and the other by a distinguished professor of a well-known college.

A family of this town possessed a large yellow cat whose sphere of usefulness they desired to locate in Short Hills. One November morning Mr. Cat was placed in a basket, the basket was placed in a carriage, and a rug was thrown over the basket. He saw no daylight, or but stray rays, between Bloomfield and Short Hills. He remained several days about the house and barn in Short Hills and then disappeared. The succeeding March, footsore and weary, he made his appearance at his Bloomfield residence. He was received with open arms, ate a good square meal retired to the barn of his birth, and after a three days' sleep resumed his place in the family.

A gentleman of Bath, Me., owned a pet cat, and intending to spend the winter in Savannah he took the cat with him. Man and cat took a steamer from Portland to New York, and then another steamer from New York to Savannah. Man and cat resided in Savannah during the winter. The succeeding spring the man returned to Bath without the cat. Some months afterwards the cat returned from Savannah to Bath without the man. Whether he tramped it through some thirteen States of the Union or returned by sea, as he went, is not known; but that he was left in Savannah and returned by himself to Bath is absolutely certain. This would not be bad for a member of the superior race. In fact, if he had his tongue cut out before he started it is somewhat doubtful if he would succeed in making the journey.

Mrs. Eveland Dead.
 Mrs. Margaret O. Eveland, widow of the late Samuel Eveland, died at her home, No. 37 Linden Avenue, on Wednesday at the age of seventy years, of paralysis. Deceased was well known and highly respected. She leaves six adult children. Her funeral will take place this afternoon at three o'clock from her late residence. Interment in the Bloomfield Cemetery.

Brookdale Notes.
 Brookdale Lodge, Order of Good Templars, will hold their annual picnic at Hanover Neck next Tuesday.
 The Sunday-school of the Brookdale Reformed Church held its annual picnic at Verona Lake on Thursday.

The Watessing Stars defeated the Imperials of Newark last Saturday at Newark by a score of 14 to 12. At the conclusion of the game a dispute arose over the possession of some bats and a fight ensued. The Imperials attacked Gebhardt and knocked him down. The conduct of the Imperials was that of a pack of rascals.

Shoenthal, the leading shoe house, will close all day Tuesday, August 9.—Advt.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Will Bates a Banner.
 TO THE EDITOR OF THE CITIZEN:
 I noticed in your last issue an article stating that a subscription list was being passed around by the members of the Young Men's Republican Club to raise funds for a banner. This is incorrect and I write now to order to have the position of the club in the matter properly understood by the public. It was intended to raise a banner, and we would obtain the money from our members and not from outsiders. We do not depend on the pocket-books of men who are not members to support our club. A banner will soon be raised, however, not by the Young Men's Republican Club, but by the Republicans of Bloomfield at large.
 F. M. DAVIS, President.

 SIR: I have some more fool ideas that I wish to ventilate—some ideas that I would like other fool broadwinners to decide in their workshops, on their farms, in their stores, on their trains, on their boats, in their banks and law offices, for I include in the great army of broadwinners all who hold the brush that feeds them in the "Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man," all who believe that "we are our brother's keepers," and that the rich should not oppress the poor, the strong the weak, or the wise the simple—those who believe in square even-handed justice to all. Now I have a fool idea that out of every one hundred broadwinners only six are working under protection (taxed industries), and that the six get less wage than the ninety-four working outside of so-called protected industries. Suppose, for argument's sake, this is correct, is it right for the ninety-four to be taxed for the benefit of the six?

Now, I have another fool idea that capitalists, rich men, will never consent voluntarily to a direct tax. It will have to be forced upon them if it ever comes. Every broadwinner will remember that the rich man's taxes (after the war) were the first to come off—such as taxes on incoming mortgages, bonds, checks, etc. It was the lust of greed that caused this. None know so well as they that the fool broadwinners, so long as they knew it not, would in every article of daily use pay all and more than was necessary to run all the expenses of Government. It was the lust of greed that caused them to increase the commoner's tax until it reached the grandest monstrosity of the nineteenth century, McKinley legislation; and this they have the sublime cheek to call pro-tem-er-ty-o-n. It was the lust of greed and the lust of power, in which cowardly Democracy follows the lead of consistent Republicanism, that increased the pension roll from sixty million, as apologized for by Mr. Garfield, to one hundred and fifty million dollars, every cent of which comes from broadwinners' pockets. None know so well as they that the inherent patriotism in every broadwinner's heart would say "amen" to this monstrous injustice. Broadwinners, I have said that Mr. Garfield apologized for the amount of the pension tax at that time, viz., sixty millions. He promised the American people that he would naturally reduce as the years rolled by. Fool broadwinners, however, would it have increased if a tax on incomes (the millionaire's tax) had to furnish the amount? Now, I do not propose to be misunderstood on this pension question. Were it in my power, I would pension every worthy disabled soldier, not with a paltry eight, ten, or twelve dollars per month, but with a sum in every case equal to his needs and that of his family, and then decrease the national expenditure one hundred millions annually. Fool broadwinners, do you know of any "bounty jumpers," deserters, or deserters' widows receiving pensions? Who pays them?

As stated in the commencement, I am only ventilating some of my fool ideas. I have a fool idea that if this reaches some broadwinner who is undecided and is afraid of the cry "free trade," that the money power has left its successor about five hundred millions per annum to raise, and he ought to be satisfied with what this amount will draw from his pocket during the next four years. Now, do not be alarmed, brothers; I pledge you that the millionaire will be no more inclined to pay his share of taxes four years hence than he is now, so do not pass any sleepless nights for fear he will.

I have expressed the fool idea that the rich man pays taxes for the support of the Government, nor does he, comparatively speaking, for consumption pays it all. It requires just as many yards of cloth to make a garment for a poor man or his wife as it does for a rich man of his wife. Both rich and poor will consume the same amount of solids and fluids, the poor always paying the tax, the rich man frequently paying none, as was the case decided in our court a short time since, viz., a millionaire attempted to bring through the Custom-house clothing to the amount of five hundred dollars free of duty, and the courts allowed him to do it, the decision being that it was not an unreasonable amount of clothing, his wealth considered.

I have another fool idea. It is this, that while I believe that capital has a fearful grip upon the throat of labor, it can be shaken off, and that by the most peaceful and sure way possible, through the secret or Australian ballot. You have this choice left yet, brothers. Avail yourselves of it. Go to the polls, where you can prepare a ballot in the presence of your Maker only, prepare it and cast it in the interest of yourself, your wife, and your children.

BLOOMFIELD, July 25.
Glen Ridge Notes.
 Postmaster Morris received notice from the postal authorities last week that the Glen Ridge post-office had been promoted to a money-order office.

Edwin L. Hine has returned to Glen Ridge after an absence of two months.

A Mr. Kelly has taken the house on Benson Street formerly occupied by F. C. Osterhout.

W. T. Tallaferro has just completed two handsome dwellings on Benson Street.

Mrs. H. Norris of Ridgewood Avenue has left the Catskills and is now at the Hotel Stratford, Point Pleasant.

"I would like to sound the praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla over the entire universe," writes Mrs. Longenecker of Union Deposit, Penn.—Advt.

Political Notes.
 The disposition of the Republican County Committee to interfere beyond its sphere with the political affairs of this township will be vigorously resented. Such well-known and sound Republicans as George W. Cook are opposed to any such action on the part of the County Committee. The Republicans of Bloomfield have ably managed their own affairs in the past, and claim to be able to do so in the future. The guardians appointed by the County Committee will find the Bloomfield Republicans advanced beyond the political kindergarten.

No Republican has been put forward as yet as the probable candidate for Congress from this district. Johnston Cornish of Washington will very likely secure the Democratic nomination. The Democratic majority in this district is estimated at 2,500.

The Second Ward Republican Club have a drill every Tuesday evening. They expect to receive their new uniforms in about two weeks. The club will make a pretty appearance, and at present have sixty marching members. The officers are: Walter J. Clark, Captain; George Jacobus, First Lieutenant; and William F. Walker, Orderly Sergeant. The club will shortly raise a banner at Broad Street and Belleville Avenue.

Superintendent of Police William H. Brown of Newark will probably be the Democratic nominee for County Clerk this fall. Mr. Brown has shown such efficiency in the various public offices he has held that he has become as well known and popular in the townships as he is in Newark. His many friends say that in the event of his nomination his election is certain. Captain Glori of Newark is mentioned as the Republican nominee.

Those two astute politicians, Benjamin Baldwin and Theodore Harvey, members of the Young Men's Republican Club, are credited with having the name of Town Committeeman Seymour P. Gilbert dropped from the Executive Committee of the club. This is said to be in revenge for Mr. Gilbert's action in opposing Messrs. Harvey and Baldwin to the police force for non-performance of duty. The deposition of Mr. Gilbert has caused a sensation in political circles. Many politicians refuse to believe that Messrs. Baldwin and Harvey had influence enough to turn him down. The act is said to have been engineered by some power behind the throne, and that it was done with a view to checking Mr. Gilbert's political career, as he had not proved pliable enough.

Theodore H. Ward, Thomas Oakes and H. L. Johnstone from Glen Ridge met with several members of the Young Men's Republican Club on Wednesday night. William Biggart of the Young Men's Club has been appointed by the County Committee to manage the Presidential campaign for the Republicans in Bloomfield. Mr. Biggart is a diligent worker and will see to it that every Republican who has "a mouth or a pocket-book" will be allotted some duty in the same relation to the Republican party in this town that Robert S. Dodd does to the Democratic party. With two such able leaders a brilliant political contest may be looked for this fall.

In Mr. Biggart, Mr. Dodd will meet with a foe man "worthy of his steel," and Thomas Cadmus, William Powers and William R. Mott will prove as valuable aids to the cause as any Mr. Dodd has selected from the two able generals looked forward to by the public with interest. Mr. Biggart will have a great advantage over previous managers of the Republican forces in this town. He will not be hampered by the "moss-backed barnacles," who are alleged to have outlived their day of political usefulness, but have all along persisted in having a voice in party affairs. The Young Men's Republican Club is to be congratulated in having effectually frozen out that element. The meagre representation it had on Wednesday night is abundant proof of that. It is not likely that the Young Men's Club will be bothered much in the future with either "moss-back" mouths or "moss-backed" pocket-books.

A NEW

Photographic Supply Store.

THE CRESCENT DRUG COMPANY, on June 15th, opened a department for the sale of PHOTOGRAPHIC SUPPLIES. The department is under the management of MR. W. B. MUSSEN, recently with Rockwood, the "quick as a wink" photographer of New York City. Mr. Mussen is one of the most capable men in his line of business in the United States, having had thirteen years' experience in the largest photographic houses in the country. Mr. Mussen was also during a period of two years, associated with Prof. G. R. Cromwell, Lecturer and Art Illustrator.

THE NEW PHOTO-SUPPLY DEPARTMENT CARRIES IN STOCK:

The Eastman Specialties,
 Rochester Optical Co.'s Goods,
 Anthony & Co.'s Goods,
 And the Popular Wares of all other makers.

Capable employees do developing and printing. Dark rooms are fitted up for the use and convenience (free of charge) of our customers. We supply all chemicals and outfits for photo use, as required both by the professional and the amateur. We manufacture

Developers, - Toning - Solutions, - Printing Papers, - Etc., - Etc.

Just here we wish to say that we have in our sole employ a chemist who has recently invented a new printing paper, etc., that will interest photographers, and of which we shall make detailed information in later advertisements. Orders for Exterior and Interior Viewing are solicited, as we have in our employ an Expert who did the interior viewing of the Vanderbilt and other elegant residences in New York City, and from whose plates the illustrations for Appleton's Homes of America were reproduced. This artist also photographed the Cesnola Collections as well as the Central Park Museum Art Collection.

Orders for Mechanical Photography in all its Branches Solicited.

We are also prepared to Give Parlor Exhibitions of Magic Lantern Views and supply a lecturer in connection therewith. In addition to Photographic Supplies a full supply of Artist Materials are carried in this department, comprising:

Color Tubes, Crayons, Stretchers, Paper, Brushes, Fine Oil, Varnishes, Etc., Etc.

IN FACT the Photo-Supply department of the Crescent Drug Company is conducted on the same enterprising and liberal principle that governs the management of all departments operated by this Company, viz.:

BEST GOODS AND BEST SERVICE AT LOWEST PRICES.

WHAT EVERYBODY SAYS:
 "If You Buy It at the 'Crescent,' It Is Pure."
 "If You Buy It at the 'Crescent,' It Is Cheap."

You are cordially invited to inspect our new Photo-Supply Department. You will not be urged to purchase anything. The guarantee of money refunded if you are dissatisfied with goods purchased, will apply to the new Photo-Supply Department just the same as to all other departments. We guarantee to sell all goods in our buildings at lower prices than can be purchased elsewhere.

And a good lamp must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Look for this stamp—THE ROCHESTER. If the lamp dealer has not the genuine Rochester, and the style you want, send to us for our new illustrated catalogue, and we will send you a lamp safely by express—your choice of over 2,600 specialties from the Largest Lamp Store in the World.
